Community Classrooms

About Pier 57

A PLACE FOR LEARNING, DISCOVERY & COMMUNITY BUILDING

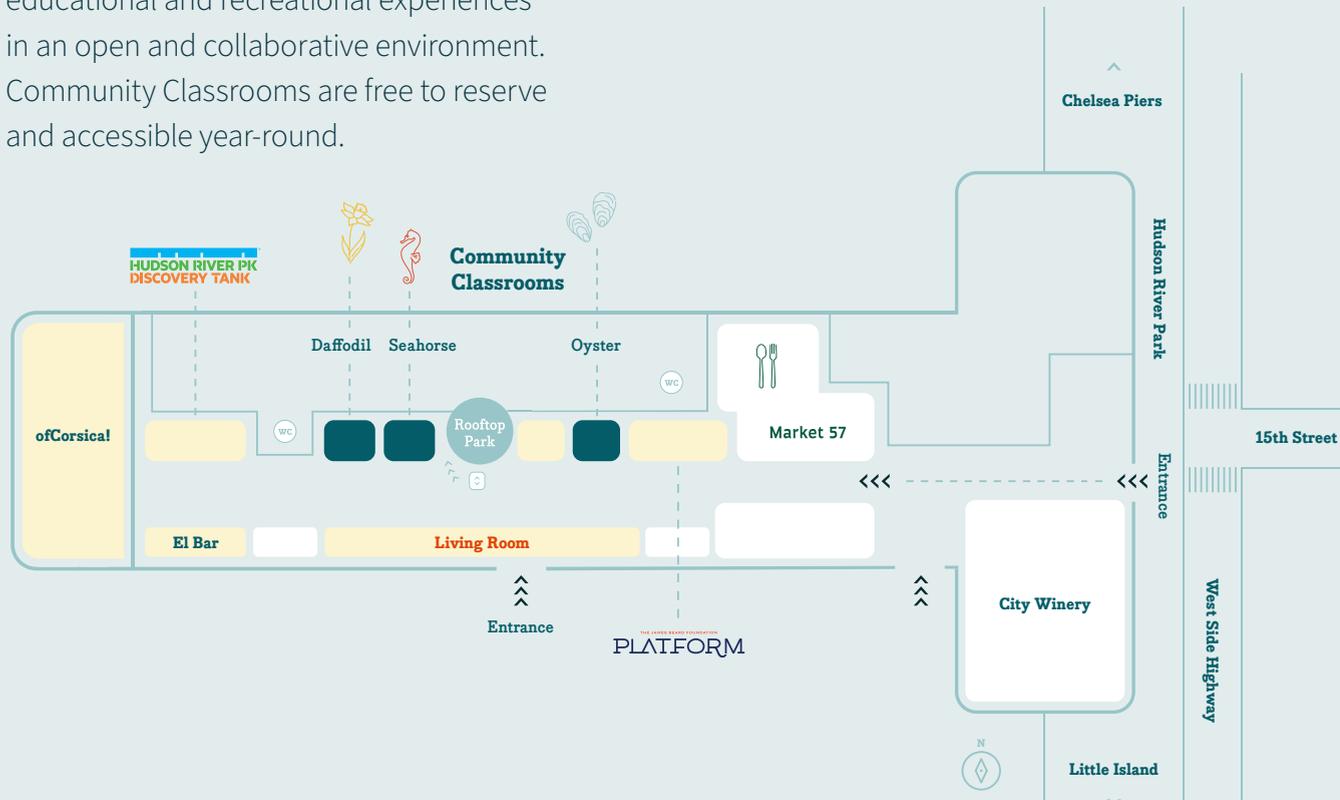

Transformed from its original maritime industrial use, with ample public spaces, a rooftop park, free community programs, and a waterfront market hall – Pier 57 brings an experience filled with food, art, culture, nature, and more to the neighborhood.

At Pier 57, Jamestown runs a series of community spaces at the property. These rooms with flexible layouts are available for booking by local nonprofits, community organizations, cultural groups, and more, and a public gathering place – called the Living Room – located on the southern edge of the Pier’s ground floor. Available by reservation only, these versatile, tech-enabled rooms can be adapted for a wide range of program types and group sizes. When not reserved by outside organizations, these spaces are programmed with public events and experiences for the local neighborhood and visitors alike to enjoy.

Community Classrooms Mission

Pier 57 Community Classrooms bring people together by providing a tech-enabled, bookable convening platform for hosting educational and recreational experiences in an open and collaborative environment. Community Classrooms are free to reserve and accessible year-round.

When not reserved by outside organizations, these spaces are programmed with public events and experiences.

Community Spaces

There are three bookable Community Classrooms, two contiguous and one standalone, all with direct access to the Living Room. The Pier's Living Room is a large, public gathering space with views of the Hudson River and Lower Manhattan.

Each Community Classroom is equipped with LED film, which can turn on or off for privacy during events.

Two additional spaces programmed by the Hudson River Park and the James Beard Foundation include 3,000 sf of dedicated community space to host year-round programs and interactive exhibits.
